Research

2016.01-present

Participant in the DAAD project: 'Credible Commitment to Long-Term Policy'

DAAD mobility grant for researcher exchange between Norway and Germany, granted by The Research Council of Norway. The project aims to build a game-theoretic model of governments' commitment to a costly long-term policy. The project includes two trips to Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research 2016 and 2017. The other participants are Jon Hovi, Detlef F. Sprinz, and Marco Islam.

Nominations and Awards

2016.10

Winner of the 'Våg å vite' ('Dear to know') prize

The prize is awarded to high quality Master's theses which challenge established thinking. I was nominated by my supervisor, Jon Hovi, for my Master's thesis 'The Dynamics of a Green Transition. An Agent-Based Analysis.' The prize is handed out by The Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Oslo, and includes a check for NOK 10.000.

2016.03

Nominee for the award 'Norway's ten greatest lecturers'

The Norwegian newspaper Morgenbladet is to select 'Norway's ten greatest lecturers.' I am nominated—and selected as one of the top 39 candidates—for my seminar tutoring in a Bachelor's level course in statistical analysis and research methodology (STV1020) at the Department of Political Science, University of Oslo.
